

DART SOFTWARE FOR ENERGY MARKETERS RELEASED

Ziphany, LLC releases Dart software to enable Energy Marketers of Electric and Natural Gas

NORTH TONAWANDA, NY (USA), JUNE 15, 2005: Ziphany, LLC, a leading provider of software and data hosting solutions for the energy industry, announces the release of its Dart software platform. Ziphany's Dart software enables Energy Marketers to grow their retail book of business with a scalable and robust software solution.

With immense competition amongst deregulated states, Ziphany's Dart software now provides Energy Marketers of Electricity and Natural Gas with a software solution that is scalable and robust. The Dart software platform acts as a Customer Information System for Energy Marketers, giving them a central database to manage contracts, transactions and billing which is achieved via EDI (Electronic Data Interchange). While Dart acts as a Customer Information System, it also equips the Energy Marketer with tools centric to forecasting and load shaping accurately.

Michael P. Ciembor, Business Development Manager for Ziphany, LLC, stated "Dart brings great value to deregulated energy markets, it provides Energy Marketers with a central database to manage and purchase energy much more efficiently than most systems being utilized in the market. Dart also gives Energy Marketers the option of having it provided by Ziphany as a service, or have it supplied as a bundled software package."
